Los Angeles Basin Geological Society Newsletter

April 22nd (Thursday), 2010 Meeting: Erik Pounders

Geologist – Earthquake Hazards Program, USGS Pasadena will speak on

Current Earthquake Studies – Southern California

Speaker Abstract

This exciting talk will take us over through a quick review of southern California tectonics, faults and hazards and then delve into what the current cutting edge seismology methods and tools are being used to study earthquakes. It will also take a close look at what we are hoping for in the future (earthquake early warning), and a discussion of the ShakeOut scenario.

Speaker Biography

Erik Pounders is a geologist in charge of education and outreach for the United States Geological Survey (USGS) in Pasadena, California. His southern California office is part of the Earthquakes Hazards Program, which in collaboration with Caltech, monitors valuable seismic and Global Positioning Systems data for earthquake studies in southern California.

LABGS Don Clark Brunton Award

The Society is turning their attention toward the identification of a qualified applicant for the 2010 award. Check our website.

The LABGS Don Clarke Brunton Award was created as an annual gift of encouragement and recognition to those community college students who show dedication and passion to the field of Geoscience. It is our goal to encourage future geoscientists in their pursuits. Douglas Thoin was chosen as the recipient of the 2009 Don Clarke Brunton Award. Douglas was nominated for this award by Dr. Doug Britton of Long Beach City College, who provided the scholarship committee with his qualifications and a letter of recommendation.
